GLOBAL CRISES | GAPING INEQUALITIES

Branko Milanovic is lead economist in the World Bank's Research Department, in the unit that addresses poverty and income inequality. He is also as a College Park professor at the University of Maryland School of Public Policy and visiting fellow at the Carlos III University in Madrid. He has authored numerous articles on the methodology and empirics of global income distribution and the effects of globalization. His most recent book The Haves and the Have-nots: A Brief and Idiosyncratic History of Global Inequality (Basic Books) was published in December 2010.

Jon Elster (Ph.D., University of Paris, 1972) taught at Paris, Oslo and Chicago before coming to Columbia. He occupied the Chaire de Rationalité en sciences sociales at the Collège de France between 2006 and 2011. Professor Elster's publications include Nuts and Bolts for the Social Sciences (1989), Local Justice (1992), Political Psychology (1993), Alchemies of the Mind (1999), Ulysses Unbound (2000) and Closing the Books: Transitional Justice in Historical Perspective (2004). His research interests include the theory of rational choice, the theory of distributive justice and the history of social thought (Marx and Tocqueville). He is currently working on a comparative study of constitution-making processes from the Federal Convention to the present, besides being engaged in a project on the microfoundations of civil war.
